Mini of our users have been asking for a way how to publish their own products on an unbranded webpage so that you are not forced to associate the sale of your products with Kraftwurx. To address this we're happy to announce the availability of Social Stage from Digital Reality.

What is it? Simply put, it's your own products on one or many Facebook pages that you setup for free, directly from your Kraftwurx control panel. This gives you the ability to showcase your products by category directly on a Facebook page as an application.

This feature is available exclusively from us and is patent pending so don't look for it on our competitors sites!

Totally free to use, launch as many stores as you wish, no branding. Use your logo on both store header and packing slips shipped from us. More details to follow.
