RAPID 2012 is just around the corner May 22-25th. This year's RAPID conference will include a 3D Printed Fashion Show along with various manufacturing and rapid prototyping technologies on display. RAPID is organized by (SME), The Society of Manufacturing Engineers. SME is the premier source for manufacturing information, education and networking. Through programs, events like RAPID 2012, and various publications, SME connects manufacturing engineers and designers to each other, the latest technologies and to the latest manufacturing processes.

This year's RAPID 2012 printed Fashion Show will present many works by 3d artists and designers from around the world. Including 3d printed shoes, jewelry, head gear and clothing of all types. You can learn more about RAPID 2012 and the 3d Printed Fashion Show here:
